

Cyber Incident Response

Document Review Protocol

Introduction

The purpose of this review is to capture personal information (PI) contained in the relevant records to generate reporting in compliance with the notice obligations for each jurisdiction. The data has been pre-searched for terms that are indicative of PI relevant to notice obligations. Reviewers will manually scan the document, utilizing the search hit information for each document, to determine if relevant PI is included in the record. If included, the reviewer will log the information about the individual whose PI is contained in the record and the type of sensitive PI based on the protocol below.

Jurisdictional Considerations

The review team needs to consider whether the document contains US or non-US data.

If the document contains non-US data, the review team should capture any Data Subject information if the document contains at least one (1) of the PI types listed below.

However, US-based Data Subjects should only be captured if (1) a name is present, in combination with one of the PI types listed below or (2) in the case of email address, if the email address is in combination with a password or security question and answer.

If it is unclear whether the relevant data subject is US-based or non-US-based, capture all of the information described in the protocol below, regardless of whether a name is present (i.e., treat the individual as a non-US data subject for purposes of completing the review).

For non-US data, in the absence of a Data Subject's first or last names, please capture the name(s) as "[Unknown]" and enter any relevant identifying information such as Government-Issued Identification Number and issuing country, Date of Birth, Residential Address, etc.

For US data, in the absence of a Data Subject's name, capture as "[Unknown]" only if SSN, Tax ID, or Other Government ID is present.
